Proposed Observatory and Nature Center adjacent to Joshua Tree National Park

NOVEMBER 8, 2010

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HOLIDAY GIFTS WITH DESERT THEMES

Desert-themed holiday gifts will be the focus of a Sky's The Limit gathering on Sunday, November 14 from 2 – 5 p.m. The recently-published keepsake book of native plants will be on sale, as well as greeting cards and fun, educational gifts for children. The event will be held at Broadview, 73452 Sunnyslope (1/2 block west of the intersection of Bagley Avenue and Sunnyslope Drive) in Twentynine Palms.

Artists will personally sign their illustrations in the book, Native Plants of Sky's The Limit Observatory and Nature Center, Twentynine Palms, California. The original drawings were donated to Sky's The Limit by artists throughout the Morongo Basin. Profits will support a Native Plant Education Program, which will promote an appreciation of native desert flora, foster an understanding of sustainability through responsible environmental decisions, and advocate the appropriate use of native landscaping.

Publication of the book was funded through a grant from The Community Foundation, serving Riverside & San Bernardino Counties. More information is available at www.thecomunityfoundation.net.
